PREFACE

This report presents statistics on the number of inhabitants of the State, its counties, and minor civil divisions (townships, etc.). In addition, separate figures are also presented for urban places, wards of cities of 5,000 or more, and other areas of the State. These data are based upon tabulations from the Seventeenth Decennial Census of the population of the United States, its Territories, and possessions conducted as of April 1, 1950. Provision for the Seventeenth Decennial Census was made in the act providing for the Fifteenth and subsequent decennial censuses which was approved on June 18, 1929.

The major portion of the information compiled from the Census of Population of 1950 will appear in Volume I, Number of Inhabitants, and in Volume II, Characteristics of the Population. This report is a preprint of Chapter 33 (North Carolina) of Volume I, which is to present, in a single publication, statistics on the number of inhabitants for each State.

The materials presented here will also appear as Chapter A of Part 33 (North Carolina) of Volume II. Volume II will comprise a series of separately published parts, one for each State and a summary for the United States. The use of separate parts makes the basic materials on characteristics of the population for a given State available to the public in a single publication. Within the part for a State, Chapter A will recapitulate the statistics on the number and distribution of the population within a State; Chapter B will present statistics on the general characteristics of the population of the various political subdivisions of the State, such as counties, incorporated places, and the like; and Chapter C will present data on the detailed characteristics of the population of the larger areas within the State, such as cities of 100,000 inhabitants or more and standard metropolitan areas.

The materials presented here were prepared under the supervision of Howard G. Brunsmann, Chief, Population and Housing Division, and Dr. Henry S. Shryock, Jr., Assistant Chief for Population Statistics, by Dr. Henry D. Sheldon, Chief, Demographic Statistics Section, and Charles P. Brinkman, Chief, Population Distribution Unit; the compilation of the statistics was under the direction of Robert B. Voight, Assistant Chief for Operations. The collection of the information on which these statistics are based was under the supervision of Lowell T. Galt, Chief, Field Division. The geographic work, including the delineation of special types of urban territory and the preparation of maps, was under the supervision of Clarence E. Batschelet, Chief, Geography Division.

Volume

- I Number of Inhabitants
- II Characteristics of the Population

Succeeding volumes will cover the following subjects:

Census Tracts, Nativity and Parentage, Nonwhite Population by Race, Persons of Spanish Surname, Institutional Population, Differential Fertility, Labor Force Characteristics, Occupation, Industry, Income, Internal Migration, Education, Characteristics of Families and Households.

U. S. CENSUS OF HOUSING: 1950

Volume

- I General Characteristics
- II Nonfarm Housing Characteristics
- III Farm Housing Characteristics
- IV Residential Financing
- V Block Statistics

Housing statistics for census tracts are to be included in the Population reports on census tracts.

NORTH CAROLINA

Number of Inhabitants

The State.—North Carolina was one of the Thirteen Original States. Its population on April 1, 1950, according to the Seventeenth Census, was 4,061,929. The State has a land area of 49,097 square miles. In 1950 there was an average of 82.7 persons per square mile as compared with an average of 72.7 in 1940. Among the States, North Carolina ranked tenth in population and twenty-eighth in land area.

North Carolina had a population of 393,751 in 1790 (table 1). In 1950, 160 years later, its population was more than 10 times as large. The population of the State increased by 1½ million in the 110-year period ending in 1900. This gain was exceeded in the first 40 years of the twentieth century, when the population rose from 1,893,810 to 3,571,623. The increase of 490,306 between 1940 and 1950 was second only to the gain experienced in the decade 1920 to 1930.

Usual place of residence.—According to usual Census practice, which dates back to 1790, each person enumerated in the 1950 Census was counted as an inhabitant of his usual place of residence or usual place of abode, which is generally construed to mean the place where he lives and sleeps most of the time. This place is not necessarily the same as his legal residence, voting residence, or domicile, although, in the vast majority of cases, these different bases of classification would be identical.

In the application of this rule, persons were not always counted as residents of the places in which they happened to be found by the census enumerators. Persons in places where guests usually pay for quarters (hotels, etc.) were enumerated on the night of April 11, and those whose usual place of residence was elsewhere were allocated to their homes. Visitors found staying in private homes, however, were not ordinarily interviewed there. Information on persons away from their usual place of residence was obtained from other members of their families, landlords, etc. If an entire family was expected to be away during the whole period of the enumeration, information on it was obtained from neighbors. A matching process was used to eliminate duplicate reports for persons who reported for themselves while away and were also reported by their families at home.

Persons in the armed forces quartered on military installations were enumerated as residents of the States, counties, and minor civil divisions in which their installations were located. Members of their families were enumerated where they actually resided. In the 1950 Census, college students living away from home were considered residents of the communities in which they were residing while attending college, rather than as persons temporarily absent from their parental homes as was the practice in 1940. In 1950 the crews of vessels of the American Merchant Marine in harbors of the United States were counted as part of the population of the ports in which their vessels were berthed on April 1, 1950. In 1940 such persons were treated as part of the population of the port from which the vessel operated. Inmates of institutions, who ordinarily live there for long periods of time, were counted as inhabitants of the place in which the institution was located; whereas patients in general hospitals, who ordinarily have short stays, were counted at, or allocated to, their homes. All persons without a usual place of residence were counted where they were enumerated.

Urban and rural population.—The 1950 urban population of North Carolina comprised 1,368,101 persons, or 33.7 percent of the population of the State (table 1). This population was living in the 107 urban places in the State and in other territory included in the urban fringes of the 6 urbanized areas in the State. More than 70 percent of the urban population was living in the 31 urban places of 10,000 inhabitants or more (table 2). Each of the 30 incorporated places of 10,000 or more gained population between 1940 and 1950, with the increases ranging from 1.0 percent in Thomasville city to 190.6 percent in Albemarle town (table 4).

The rural population of North Carolina numbered 2,693,828 persons, or 66.3 percent of the total population of the State. Of the rural population, 215,469 persons, or 8.0 percent, were living in the 136 incorporated and unincorporated places of 1,000 to 2,500 inhabitants (table 2).

Urban definition.—Under the urban definition established for use in the 1950 Census, the urban population comprises all persons living in (a) places of 2,500 inhabitants or more incorporated as cities, boroughs, towns,¹ and villages; (b) the densely settled urban fringe, including both incorporated and unincorporated areas, around cities of 50,000 or more; and (c) unincorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more outside any urban fringe. The remaining population is classified as rural. According to the urban definition used in previous censuses, the urban population comprised all persons living in incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more and areas (usually minor civil divisions) classified as urban under special rules relating to population size and density.

In both definitions, the most important component of the urban territory is the group of incorporated places having 2,500 inhabitants or more. A definition of urban territory restricted to such places, however, would exclude a number of equally large and densely settled places, merely because they were not incorporated places. Under the old definition, an effort was made to avoid some of the more obvious omissions by the inclusion of the places urban under special rules. Even with these rules, however, many large and closely built-up places were excluded from the urban territory. To improve the situation in the 1950 Census, the Bureau of the Census set up, in advance of enumeration, boundaries for urban-fringe areas around cities of 50,000 or more and for unincorporated places outside urban fringes. All the population residing in urban-fringe areas and in unincorporated places of 2,500 or more is classified as urban according to the 1950 definition. (Of course, the incorporated places of 2,500 or more are urban in their own right.) Consequently, the special rules of the old definition are no longer necessary.

According to the 1950 urban definition, the urban population of North Carolina included the following components: (1) The 1,238,193 inhabitants of the 88 incorporated places of 2,500 or more; (2) the 98,773 inhabitants of the 19 unincorporated places of 2,500 or more; and (3) the 31,135 inhabitants of the 1 incorporated place of less than 2,500 and unincorporated territory included in the urban fringes of the 6 urbanized areas in the State. Since there were no places urban under special rule under the old definition, the difference in the distribution of the population of North Carolina by urban and rural residence is that the new definition classifies as urban the 129,908 persons in components 2 and 3 who would have been included in the rural population under the old definition.

Although the Bureau of the Census has employed other definitions in the course of its history, the statistics on the population by urban and rural residence for the years 1790 to 1940 are shown in accordance with the 1940 definition. The 1950 statistics are shown in accordance with both the new and old definitions.

Trends of urban and rural population.—Trends in the urban and rural population can be examined only on the basis of the old definition. On this basis, the urban population rose from 186,790 in 1900 to 1,238,193 in 1950. The highest rate of growth in the 50-year period occurred in the decade 1900 to 1910, when the increase was at the rate of 70.5 percent. The largest numerical increase was in the 10-year period 1920 to 1930. For the decade 1940 to 1950, the increase was 264,018, or 27.1 percent. In 1900 the urban population constituted 9.9 percent of the population of the State, whereas by 1950 it had risen to 30.5 percent (table 1). In 1900 there were no incorporated places of 25,000 inhabitants or more; by 1950 there were 10 such places with a combined population of 633,660 (table 3).

The rural population also increased, but the rate of growth in the rural population was consistently below that of the urban population in each decade of the 50-year period. As a result, the proportion of the population living in rural territory declined from 90.1 percent in 1900 to 69.5 percent in 1950. The rural population increased by 226,288, or 8.7 percent, between 1940 and 1950. The rate of increase was the lowest over the 50-year period, whereas the numerical increase was exceeded by the gains for the decades 1920 to 1930 and 1930 to 1940.

Counties.—The 100 counties in North Carolina ranged in size from Tyrrell with a population of 5,048 to Mecklenburg with a population of 197,052. Between 1940 and 1950, 78 of the counties shared in the population growth of the State. Twenty of the 22 counties losing population had no urban population. Included in the 22 were 7 of the 9 counties which had lost population between 1930 and 1940. Fifteen of the counties gaining between 1940 and 1950 had rates of growth in excess of 20 percent. Nearly one-fourth of the population growth of the State was accounted for by three counties—Mecklenburg, Guilford, and Cumberland (table 5).

Minor civil divisions.—To the primary political divisions into which counties are subdivided, the Bureau of the Census applies the general term "minor civil divisions." The minor civil divisions in North Carolina are townships. The incorporated cities, towns, and villages form subdivisions of the minor civil divisions in which they are located.

Table 6 shows statistics on the population of each county by minor civil divisions for the last three censuses. The population of each incorporated and unincorporated place is shown in italics under the population of the minor civil division in which it is located. When an incorporated or unincorporated place lies in two or more minor civil divisions, the population of the several parts is shown in table 6 in the appropriate counties and minor civil divisions, and each part is designated by "part." Figures on the total population of such places are given in table 7. Unincorporated places are designated by "uninc." Changes between the 1940 Census and the 1950 Census in the boundaries of the areas listed are shown in notes to table 6. For changes in boundaries prior to the 1940 Census, see reports of the Sixteenth Census (1940), Population, Vol. I, pp. 775-781, and reports of earlier censuses.

Incorporated and unincorporated places.—In 1950 North Carolina had 475 places incorporated as cities, towns, and villages, and 48 unincorporated places of 1,000 inhabitants or more. Of the 1,529,617 persons living in the incorporated places, 291,424 were in the 387 places of less than 2,500 inhabitants. The 29 unincorporated places of between 1,000 and 2,500 inhabitants accounted for 44,387 of the 143,160 persons living in the unincorporated places.

Political units recognized as incorporated places in the 1950 Census are those which are incorporated as cities, boroughs, towns, and villages with the exception that towns are not recognized as incorporated places in the New England States, New York, and Wisconsin.

The Bureau of the Census has delineated boundaries for the thickly settled urban fringe around cities of 50,000 or more and has also delineated boundaries for unincorporated places of 1,000 or more which are densely settled population centers without corporate limits. Although there are unincorporated places within the urban fringe, it was not feasible to establish boundaries for such places and therefore they are not identified as separate places.

The count of urban places in the 1950 Census includes all incorporated places of 2,500 or more regardless of location and unincorporated places of 2,500 or more which are located outside the urban-fringe areas. Incorporated places of less than 2,500 which lie in the urban fringe are not recognized as urban places.

Urbanized areas.—There were six urbanized areas in North Carolina in 1950—the Asheville, Charlotte, Durham, Greensboro, Raleigh, and Winston-Salem Urbanized Areas with a combined population of 517,367 (table 9). Of this combined population, 486,232 persons were living in the central cities and 31,135 in the urban fringes of these cities. The urban fringes included 882 persons in Hamilton Lakes town in the urban fringe of Greensboro and 30,253 persons living in unincorporated parts of the fringes.

Each urbanized area contains at least one city with 50,000 inhabitants or more in 1940 or according to a special census taken since 1940, and some urbanized areas contain two or more cities of 50,000. Each urbanized area also includes the surrounding closely settled incorporated places and unincorporated areas that meet the criteria listed in the section below on "Urban fringe." Thus, the territory of an urbanized area may be classified into incorporated parts and unincorporated parts. (See urbanized area maps.)

An urbanized area may also be divided into central city or cities and urban fringe as defined below.

Central cities.—Although an urbanized area may contain more than one city of 50,000 or more, not all cities of this size are necessarily central cities. The largest city of an area is always a central city. In addition, the second and third most populous cities in the area may qualify as central cities provided they have a population of at least one-third of that of the largest city in the area and a minimum of 25,000 inhabitants. The names of the individual urbanized areas indicate the central cities of the areas.

Urban fringe.—The urban fringe includes that part of the urbanized area which is outside the central city or cities. The following types of areas are embraced if they are contiguous to the central city or cities or if they are contiguous to any area already included in the urban fringe.

1. Incorporated places with 2,500 inhabitants or more in 1940 or at a subsequent special census conducted prior to 1950.
2. Incorporated places with fewer than 2,500 inhabitants containing an area with a concentration of 100 dwelling units or more with a density in this concentration of 500 units or more per square mile. This density represents approximately 2,000 persons per square mile and normally is the minimum found associated with a closely spaced street pattern.
3. Unincorporated territory with at least 500 dwelling units per square mile.
4. Territory devoted to commercial, industrial, transportation, recreational, and other purposes functionally related to the central city.

Also included are outlying noncontiguous areas with the required dwelling unit density located within $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles of the main contiguous urbanized part, measured along the shortest connecting highway, and other outlying areas within one-half mile of such noncontiguous areas which meet the minimum residential density rule.

Table 6.—POPULATION OF COUNTIES BY MINOR CIVIL DIVISIONS: 1930 TO 1950

["Uninc." designates an unincorporated place. Figures for 1930 and 1940 not available for unincorporated places. Total population of a place located within 2 or more minor civil divisions appears in table 7. Minor civil division totals for 1940 and 1950 do not necessarily add to county totals. Boundary changes between 1940 and 1950 given in footnotes: for changes between 1930 and 1940, see reports of the 16th Census (1940), Population, Vol. I, pp. 775-781]

URBANIZED AREA MAPS

The six urbanized areas located in North Carolina, for which statistics are shown in table 9, are depicted in the following maps. The shaded areas, in combination, comprise the urbanized area. To assist in locating the exact external boundaries of the area, each boundary feature (street segment, political boundary, or other) has been assigned a number. The boundary segments thus numbered are shown on the map and the features to which they apply are presented in the following key.
